Dear Harold:

Regarding your recent letter I would think it advisable to forget about The Skolnick Suit.

Of course, it contains no legal foundation and will be summarily dismissed but there is no legal impediment to the filing of such a suit.

The Huie Book, He Slew The Dreamer, presents "the no conspiracy" thesis very unconvincingly.

Again, the most unresolved and perhaps most significant period was Ray's activity in the French Quarter of New Orleans.

I enclose an article by Al Chapman, an "investigator" who specializes in spawning curious "evidence".

Sincerely,

Edward R. Williams
